GFO Library Now Open by Appointment

After more than a year, the GFO opened its library doors on July 1, 2021, to patrons with appointments. It's thrilling to see people conduct research in person. We are smiling behind our masks and hope it shows in our eyes.

The Reopening Committee is keeping abreast of virus news and mandates in order to establish protocols that protect our community while providing access to the library. We have installed plastic barriers and created adequate distance between our research stations. There is a cleaning protocol in place, and masks are required.

The situation remains fluid, and the committee continues to make adjustments as needed. The most recent information available can be found at gfo.org/visit.

At present, the library is open Monday through Friday (except when there are no volunteers to make that possible). Appointments can be made for one (or both) of the research periods: morning, 9 a.m. to noon, and afternoon, 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Space is available for five patrons per research shift. Appointments must be made at least 24 hours in advance.

There are two research assistants available during each shift to assist you. Within the library, you can access Newspapers.com, FindMyPast, and restricted records on FamilySearch from inside the library. These are not available via the MemberSpace on our website.

VOICES OF OUR PATRONS: 75 YEARS SHARING FAMILY HISTORY

The Genealogical Forum of Oregon's Power Is Connection

Karen Hubbard

In the 1960s and 70s my family had so many unanswered questions about our ancestors. Almost every ancestral line was very short. My sister and I are intrigued by mysteries and stories, especially stories about family members we have never met. We asked our parents for more stories and discovered we all had more questions.

Knocking on the GFO's door opened our eyes to the adventures of genealogy, energized our family hobby, and created many priceless memories as we traveled to find our roots.

The GFO's power lies in connecting family historians and genealogists to the resources, skills, and strategies

And, don't forget we have more than 52,000 holdings in the library. And 85% of our collections cover areas outside of the Pacific Northwest. (Our president was amazed to find a dozen of his Arkansas ancestors immortalized in books inside the GFO in Portland.)

There are plenty of appointments available in August. To make one, access the appointment calendar at gfo.org/visit. Once you have chosen a preferred time (and perhaps a backup time or two), fill out the form available in the same location. A volunteer will contact you by email when your appointment has been confirmed. Again, please make your appointment by 10 a.m. the day before you wish to visit. When no appointments have been scheduled, volunteers will not come to the library.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Why are we still requiring masks if so many people have been vaccinated?

A: We have volunteers who have had transplants, have immune disease or cancer, or have high-risk family members. Without these volunteers we would not be able to reopen. We believe in being cautious, considerate, and protective of our most vulnerable.

Q: Why did you reduce the number of research stations?

A: The tables aren't long enough to permit six-foot distancing if someone sits at each table. So, we removed chairs and some computers to allow for better distancing.

Q: What if I want to come in with my spouse or friend to research together?

A: We require visitors to agree to distancing; however, two people from the same household—or even two people who are in each other's circle—are welcome to share one table. If you both want to come in at the same time, each should make an appointment. Then tell us on the appointment form that you plan to work together at one desk.

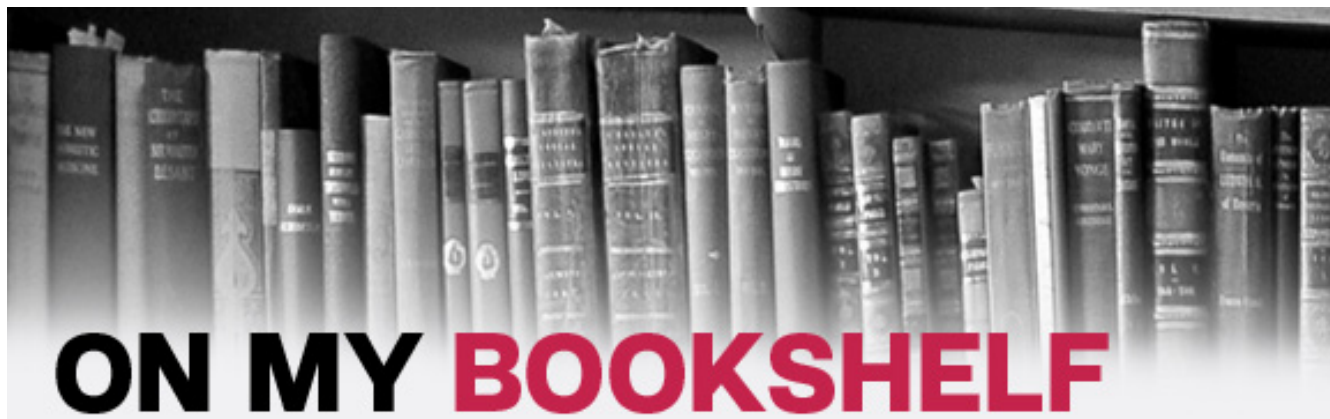

Q: Can I stay over the lunch break?

A: No. Volunteers have duties that must be done while the library is closed.

Q: Why aren't drop-ins allowed?

A: It all boils down to scheduling. The GFO is run entirely by volunteers, and they do not keep regular hours. Therefore, in order for us to schedule our volunteers, we need at least 24-hour notice that a patron has requested an appointment. The appointment will be made and confirmed if we have enough volunteers.

ON MY BOOKSHELF

This month's column is written by Geri Auerbach. She is a professional genealogist, co-editor of The Forum Insider and a member of the GFO Board of Directors.

Two books from my bookshelf that I consult frequently when working on local family research are Oregon Geographic Names, sixth edition by Lewis L. McArthur and Dictionary of Oregon History by Howard McKinley Corning.

Oregon Geographic Names, sixth edition, published in 1992 by the Oregon Historical Society Press, is a wonderful resource with over 900 pages of Oregon place names. The names are listed alphabetically, with their county, and often with the history of that location. More than half of these recorded names have a biographic history, which is why it can be such a rich resource for genealogists. This is also a good book to have in the car for road trips around the state.

The GFO library has a copy of the seventh edition, which was revised and expanded to over 1000 pages and published in 2003. I still use the sixth edition, which I have had since its publication. The sixth edition (especially a used copy) is more readily available for purchase than the newer edition.

The second book I find useful, and interesting as a book to just browse, is the Dictionary of Oregon History. The original title of this book was Dictionary of Oregon History: Compiled from the Research Files of the Former Oregon Writer's Project. The Oregon Writers Project was a Works Progress Administration agency that offered employment to young writers during the depression. The Writers Project ended with the start of the second World War. After the war, the author of this book, Howard McKinley Corning, returned to the files and published Dictionary of Oregon History in 1956. The book contains histories of persons, counties, groups, companies, and institutions. Although it is not an all-encompassing history of Oregon, it is a unique publication that preserves work that might otherwise have been lost. The GFO has a copy of this book. It is harder to find for purchase than Oregon Geographic Names, but used copies can be located.

We'd love to feature the genealogy book(s) that you can't live without. Please send a description of the book(s) and how they have helped your research to insider@gfo.org.

needed to fully document their own family histories. We share our joys, frustrations, and delight when we discover another generation. I am awed by the breadth of knowledge and experience that is so graciously offered. I have had the pleasure of asking questions and finding new friendships as we each work on our genealogy projects. We are very grateful and humbled by the 400 years of documents generated by so many family historians and genealogists, especially in the days before computers! Their recording of history makes possible our discoveries today.

The 80s were a busy time for my family, but as we learned more skills and strategies, we managed to locate my mom's only living aunt in Wisconsin. Katherine (Frenette) Larson graciously agreed to meet with us, and we shared a delightful afternoon learning more of her story. On Dad's side we followed his line back to North Carolina in the 1700s where the paper trail went cold. At the time, research was still conducted by mail or included library visits in the locale of the ancestor.

As the 90s advanced, we learned how to use computer programs and databases to cover more research areas and post queries. GFO offered classes and presentations in emerging technologies. We enjoyed meeting genealogists from around the world as GFO hosted the National Genealogical Society 1991 conference in Portland.

My parents were especially intrigued by work being done on the human genome and how it could be used to extend genealogy research. Emily Aulicino's early DNA classes sparked Mom and Dad to take DNA tests; however, it was so new in 2005 that there was a long wait for a match.

In mom's case it was about a year and a half when she received a note from Lucie LaBlanc Consentino asking if mom was related to Antoinette Landry. We were not familiar with that person so all I could share were the most recent five generations that we had painstakingly pieced together. The next morning in my inbox was Lucie's note saying that mom is a direct descendant of Antoinette Landry. She gave us the 12 generations of ancestral couples connecting mom to Antoinette Landry, a founding mother of Acadia in Nova Scotia in 1640!

That discovery led to our attending the Landry family reunion in New Brunswick at the Acadian World Congress. Antoinette sailed from France and arrived in Port Royal, Nova Scotia, before 1642 when she married Antoine Bourg and lived at the Habitat, a small stockaded fort. Visiting the replica Habitat gave a breathtaking immersion into what it meant to carve out a place in the wilderness, and survive.

DNA evidence was key for extending my father's line also. His YDNA became an essential clue for a case tracked by forensic genealogist Heather Dau. My father's YDNA test was extended to prove a DNA connection between two Canadian brothers' families. The evidence helped settle a contentious probate and, more importantly for our family, established our patriarch's Irish homeland. Heather continues to help us connect my paternal line relatives from Oregon, Missouri, Tennessee, North Carolina, Canada, Australia, and Ireland. The paper trail is still a work in progress, but given enough research time it will happen! Note to self: schedule more time to research!

The discoveries of our ancestral homelands have fueled trips to Canada, France, England, Scotland, and Ireland to learn more ancestors' stories. As Bishop Michael Curry, the 27th Presiding Bishop and Primate of the Episcopal Church, has said, "Our stories are the song of the soul in the language of life." Life has been rich indeed.

As my journey along the paper trail becomes harder, it reminds me to share and give back to GFO for the next group starting their own journeys down the paper and DNA trails. I enjoy sharing what I've learned.

What remains for me is to start gathering all the stories and putting them together in the book of our family! Note to self: schedule more time to write up stories!

GFO has been a genealogical touchstone across the decades, and we have been delighted to introduce my daughters and grandchildren to genealogy's joys and discoveries. It seems they too have questions about their ancestors. Now even the grandchildren are getting into the habit of asking great questions. Hopefully they will continue adding and sharing new family stories.

We enjoy helping the GFO as a family, whether packing up a member's donated French Canadian private library, helping at the NGS conference, facilitating a Special Interest Group, presenting at Open House, or rearranging chairs in the small classroom. Our small efforts have added to the contributions GFO volunteers have made and continue to make. We will keep expanding the smorgasbord of delectable intellectual treats as we steer toward GFO's new home.

Throughout 75th anniversary year of the GFO, The Forum Insider would like your reflections on what our organization has meant to you. Please send your stories to insider@gfo.org.

Pam Husband Wins MemberSpace Escape Room Challenge

Prize is Free Admission to our Fall Seminar with Cari Taplin and Melissa Barker

Thank you to all who submitted entries to our Escape Room challenge. Our randomly chosen winner, Pam Husband, will receive entry to our two-day virtual Fall Seminar: Out of the House and On the Road: In-Person Research with Cari Taplin, C.G., and Melissa Barker, the "Archive Lady."

We hope you had fun navigating through the many digitized GFO records that are available through our MemberSpace portal. Remember, our volunteers are busy with ongoing digitization. A weekly update of new MemberSpace resources appears on Thursdays in the GFO E-News.

We would like to thank Laurel Smith, GFO Library Chair, who had the idea for the Escape Room and whose diligent work heading the Library Committee is instrumental in this project. Thank you also to the volunteers who work hard digitizing our collection.

Escape Room Answers

The clue given in the Escape Room article, "The scavenger hunt questions may be in the same order as the categories," meant that the questions could be answered using the digital collections in the order they display onscreen. There were two questions in each section of the digital collections, and they were asked in the order of listed collections: Digital Journals, eBooks, Indexed Images, Indexes, and Manuscripts.

Note: all pathways to finding answers assume you have logged in to the MemberSpace and chosen "Digital Collections."

1. In the Volume 35, No. 1 issue of the Columbia Gorge Genealogical Society newsletter, Tales and Trails, who is profiled in the "Timeless Tombstones" article?

 ANSWER: Edward Crate

Choose "Digital Journals," and then click the link for most recent issues GFO receives digitally. Choose "Columbia Gorge Genealogical Society. Vol. 35, No. 1" issue. On the first page of the journal, the Table of Contents indicates that the "Timeless Tombstones-Edward Crate-Hudson Bay Company" article is on page 3.

2. In the Volume 1, No. 2 issue of the journal Louisiana African-Americans, what was the name of the 178th listed enslaved person in the Succession of

Dr. Samuel Gustine, Concordia Parish, 1845?

 ANSWER: Henry Douglas.

Choose "Digital Journals." From the journal list, choose the title Louisiana African-Americans, 1996–1999. Next choose "Vol 1–4, 1996–1999." Scroll down to Vol. 1, No. 2, and note that the article "Succession of Dr. Samuel Gustine, Concordia 1845" is on page 31. Listed on page 34 is "178. Henry Douglas, aged 33, appraised at $550.00."

3. In Washington County, Oregon Marriage Records, what was the first name of the bride married on 28 Nov 1851?

 ANSWER: Vashti

Choose "eBooks." From the alphabetical list, choose Washington County, Oregon Marriage Records, and from there "Books 1, B, 2, and 3: 1841–1896." Search the PDF. To search, hold down your Ctrl or Command key and touch the letter F. A text search box will open. In the search box, enter "28 Nov 1851." The marriage of William CARPENTER and Miss Vashti PARSONS will come up. (The marriage was actually on 26 Nov and recorded on 28 Nov 1851.) This is the only record on 28 Nov 1851.

4. In River View Cemetery Interments: Portland, Multnomah County, Oregon, Part 1, in what section, lot and space is Virgil Earp interred? Answer with numbers only with commas in between, i.e., Section 12, Lot 38, Space #2 would be answered as 12,38,2.

 ANSWER: 15,18,1

Choose "eBooks," and then choose River View Cemetery Interments: Portland, Multnomah County, Oregon. Next choose "Part 1: Introduction and Listings." Search the PDF for "Earp Virgil." The listing for "Earp Virgil W." will be highlighted. The page shows that he is in Section 15, Lot 18, #1. If you searched for just "Earp," you would have brought up two results. The first is Isabel, his wife, and the second is Virgil.

5. Hattie Eldora Farley died 17 Oct 1903 in Oregon. What was her cause of death?

 ANSWER: Intestinal obstruction

Choose "Indexed Images," and then choose "Oregon Death Certificates, 1903-1905." Choose surnames in "F." Using the search command (Ctrl or Command and F), type "Farley" in the search box. Her death certificate indicates the cause of death.

- 6. Charles Bailey was born on Sept 15th, 1905, in Portland, Oregon. What was his father's occupation?

 ANSWER: Printer

Choose "Indexed Images," and then "Portland [Oregon] Birth Certificates 1903–1905." Choose letter "B" in surname table. Search for "Bailey." Charles Bailey's birth certificate notes his father's occupation is "printer."

- 7. Ben Welch died 21 Apr 1912 and is buried in Lone Fir Cemetery. What is written in the "Notes" or "Internal Notes" column?

 ANSWER: Stillborn

Choose "Indexes." Next choose "Oregon Metro Cemeteries Indexes." Any of the four indexes will provide the answer. Search the index "Welch Ben," and a listing for Ben Welch with the notation "Stillborn" is highlighted. (With a large index, it can take several seconds for the search results to appear.)

- 8. John R. Ambelle married Marie Ruth Bowen on 28 Aug 1930. In what county did this marriage take place?

 ANSWER: Tillamook

Choose "Indexes." Find "State of Oregon Marriage License Index, 1925–1945." Choose "Vol 2, 1930–1934," and search for either "Ambelle John," "Bowen Marie," or "28 Aug 1930." All will bring up the listing.

- 9. In what File # of the Balicki Collection would you find the pedigree charts, family group sheets, biographical sketches, and research notes of the Kingsley, Mowry, and Sabin families? (answer with the numeral only)

 ANSWER: 5

Choose "Manuscripts," and then "Balicki Collection." Choose "Balicki Finding Aid." The finding aid shows that the pedigree charts, family group sheets, biographical sketches and research notes of the Kingsley, Mowry and Sabin families are in File 5.

- 10. According to the Family Group Sheet of George Floch and Catherine Huber in the Gehrke Collection, to whom was Roy E Floch married on 21 Apr 1915?

 ANSWER: Clara Gotts

Choose "Manuscripts," and find "Gehrke Collection." Open the "Gehrke Finding Aid." The contents show that the Floch family group sheets are in File 3. Go back to "Gehrke Collection" page, click the collection link to reach the collections files. Choose Gehrke File (3) to examine the third family group sheet.

We Welcome Our New Vice President, Susie Chodorow

Susie Chodorow was elected to the role of Vice President for the term beginning July 2021 and ending June 2023. As a relatively new member of the GFO, the Insider asked her to introduce herself to our community. To contact Susie, email vicepresident@gfo.org.

Susie Chodorow

I was trained as an art historian, and later in life, as a musicologist and ethnologist. I've worn many hats in the arts, from developing and running ArtWorks, a city-wide job training program for underserved youth, to working as a long-term consultant to New York State Council on the Arts, providing technical assistance services to small and mid-sized cultural organizations in nine counties in upstate New York.

A highlight of my career was collaborating with the Haudenosaunee (Iroquois) people of upstate New York. I designed a multi-year project to deliver marketing workshops and materials to their traditional artists. This led to an exhibit in Rochester, N. Y., of Haudenosaunee traditional arts that I curated and for which I wrote the catalog. The Smithsonian's National Museum of the American Indian (NMAI) purchased several artworks from the exhibit. The catalog is in the collection of the NMAI as well.

As Vice President of the GFO, I'll continue to identify funding opportunities based on defined GFO projects. I have a deep interest in board development and strengthening the GFO through strategic planning. I'll support my fellow board members in their roles as stewards of the organization and make myself available to our members for their insights and feedback.

Upcoming meetings of Special Interest Groups

GERMAN ANCESTRY GROUP

Saturday, August 7, 2021
1–3 p.m.

August's guest speaker Claire Gebben, author of How We Survive: Families Across Time, will be speaking on immigration patterns.

On September 4, speaker Tina Rainer will discuss traditional German costumes (Trachten) and what information we can gather from them. Email german@gfo.org for meeting links.

DNA—BEGINNERS

Saturday, August 14, 2021
10 a.m.–12 p.m.

Note: This meeting was moved from the fourth Saturday, its usual meeting day.

This presentation answers many of the questions submitted in May, covering these areas in general:

- Y-DNA: joining a project, getting different surname matches, and genetic difference
- mt-DNA: a general understanding of it, its usefulness, and the difference between rCRS and RSRS
- Differences in testing companies
- atDNA: admixture/bio-geographical comparison (those percentage charts), X-chromosome, triangulation
- Dealing with a match's lack of a tree
- Vetting a tree
- Validity of Ancestry's ThruLines and MyHeritage's Theory of Relativity
- How to manage or gain access to someone's test result

Please download the handout before attending class. (The handout can be downloaded from the GFO calendar at gfo.org/calendar.) Email dna@gfo.org for a meeting link.

This month the GFO Board honors two GFO members, working independently, who both helped significantly expand our collection of yearbooks. We hold yearbooks for colleges, middle and high schools, and a few grade schools in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Alaska.

For years, Sam Butler has purchased Oregon and Washington yearbooks at thrift stores and donated them to the library. Sam is careful to get only volumes we don't already have. He has kept up the donations through the COVID closure.

Roger Edwards heard about Benson High School's upcoming renovation and learned that all duplicate copies of yearbooks would be discarded. He used GFO's online library catalog to determine which volumes GFO needed and arranged to obtain many that our library did not have. He collected them from the high school and delivered them to the GFO over several weeks.

Thanks to both Sam and Roger for their help in building our wonderful collection.
